

KEEWATIN COUNTRY GRADUATE STUDENT HISTORY CONFERENCE 2013

Call for Papers “Access to History”

At Keewatin 2013 we want to spark conversations about historical study and the accessibility of historical research. Presenters can address any aspect of their current research activities (theoretical concepts, the research process, or preliminary results), or provide commentary on accessing historical resources, or on the process of memorialisation. We invite papers from a variety of disciplinary perspectives, including all periods and topics in History, Historical Geography, Archival Studies and related disciplines. We also encourage submissions related to the following topics:

research in progress
creation and contestation of historical memory oral history
digital humanities

public outreach activities
open access publication in the humanities physical and online access to historical material teaching historical and archival practice

The conference will take place at Wanuskewin Heritage Park outside Saskatoon, from April 25-27, 2013.

The annual Keewatin Country Graduate Student History Conference is organized by the graduate students of the History Departments at the University of Manitoba, the University of Saskatchewan, and the University of Winnipeg. The Keewatin Country Conference offers graduate students and top undergraduate students an opportunity to present their research in a collegial, scholarly environment. It also serves as an opportunity to build relationships and networks with students and faculty from nearby institutions.

Please submit abstracts of up to 300 words or full panel abstracts (4 papers maximum) to jozic.j@usask.ca before January 30, 2012. Successful applicants will be notified by February 15, 2013. In addition to the keynote and sessions, the conference will include social networking opportunities, and the option to participate in a workshop on academic editing.
