Welcome to the third issue of The History Education Network / Histoire et éducation en réseau’s (THEN/HiER) Annual Review which highlights major activities, initiatives and other news over the past year.

THEN/HiER Events

What Is THEN/HiER?
The History Education Network/Histoire et éducation en réseau (THEN/HiER) is the first pan-Canadian organization devoted to promoting—and improving—history teaching and learning by bringing together the multiple and varied constituencies involved in history education: academic historians; public historians in museums, archives and historic sites; practicing teachers; researchers based in faculties of education; and curriculum policy makers. Our goal is to create more research-informed practice (from kindergarten to graduate school) and more practice-informed research through dialogue among these various communities. THEN/HiER was conceived in 2005, but became firmly established in April 2008, when it received funding from a Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council Strategic Knowledge Clusters grant.

Director
Penney Clark, Professor, University of British Columbia

Executive Board
Margaret Conrad, Professor Emerita, University of New Brunswick
Catherine Duquette, Assistant Professor, Université du Québec à Chicoutimi
Anne Marie Goodfellow, PhD, Network Manager
Viviane Gosselin, PhD, Curator of Contemporary Issues, Museum of Vancouver
Jan Haskings-Winner, President, OHASSTA
Kevin Kee, Associate Vice-President Research and CRC, Brock University
Jocelyn Létourneau, Professor and CRC, Université Laval
Stéphane Lévesque, Associate Professor, University of Ottawa
Ruth Sandwell, Associate Professor, OISE/University of Toronto
Alan Sears, Professor, University of New Brunswick
Peter Seixas, Professor and CRC, University of British Columbia
Amy von Heyking, Associate Professor, University of Lethbridge

Museums as Sites of Historical Consciousness Unconference

THEN/HiER’s Museums as Sites of Historical Consciousness Unconference, organized by Viviane Gosselin, THEN/HiER Executive Board Member, was held April 11 and 12, 2012 at the Museum of Vancouver. The purpose of this event was to workshop chapters for the fourth edited collection in THEN/HiER’s book series. Contributors include practitioners and academics from a range of disciplines who consider historical literacy and the formation of historical consciousness within various museum and heritage site settings. Other members of the museum community from Vancouver and across the country participated and provided feedback to contributors.
Approaching the Past Vancouver and Toronto

Vancouver: Our Diverse History - February 7, 2013

THEN/HIER is very excited to announce a new Approaching the Past series in Vancouver. Building on the success of the Toronto-based Approaching the Past, this series addresses topics on the history of Vancouver, and provides educators and others interested in history education with talks by local historians as well as materials for lesson and program development. The first event took its theme from Heritage Week 2013 – Good Neighbours: Heritage Homes and Neighbourhoods. Talks were given by Donald Luxton, conservation consultant, educator and author; and Vanessa Campbell, educator, Squamish Nation Language Program. The event took place at the Museum of Vancouver.

The Toronto area series was themed Order and Disorder? and included the following events:

Historical Landscapes and Hauntings: Connecting Place to the History and Social Studies Curriculum - May 9, 2012

This event involved a spring walk around the University of Toronto campus. Although a rain storm scared away all but hearty participants, a good crowd braved the drizzle which in fact brought out the best of the natural environment and enhanced the stories about underground rivers and lakes by Lost Rivers speaker Helen Mills. Richard Fiennes-Clinton from Muddy York Walking Tours provided some insight on the kinds of walking trips that work well with history students, and Rose Fine-Meyer spoke of using place-based education, examining local buildings and land, to support the Ontario Social Sciences and Humanities and Canadian and World Studies curricula.

Meetings with the Monarchy - October 10, 2012

This event, held at St. James Cathedral in recognition of Queen Elizabeth II’s Diamond Jubilee, featured the historical relationship between the monarchy and the city. Nancy Mallett, Educator and Archivist for St. James Cathedral, spoke about the relationship between the Church (Toronto’s oldest) and the monarchy. The extensive collection of photographs, documents and artifacts from the archives was open for the audience to view. This was followed by a talk through Skype from Coll Thrush, a history professor at UBC.

Life at the Fort - December 4, 2012

At this event, held at Fort York, Richard Haynes, Museum Site Coordinator, provided an introduction and welcomed everyone to the fort. In honour of the War of 1812 and the bi-centennial of the City of Toronto, historian and curator Kelly Nesbitt spoke about fort life during this period. James Jenkins, Coordinator of the Walpole Island Community Cultural Centre and doctoral student at the University of Texas, spoke about the formation of Walpole Island in the aftermath of the War of 1812 and provided an important perspective of how Anishinaabe and other First Nations peoples experienced the war as well as the challenges of settlement during the period 1777-1815. The purpose of the talks was to provide alternative narratives about the war to counter many historical accounts told in history classrooms.

Stories of Mackenzie House - February 27, 2013

At this event, Janet Schwartz, Museum Site Coordinator, talked about Mackenzie House programming and provided insight into the lives of William Lyon Mackenzie and his family, including his three daughters, his mother and his wife. Danielle Urquhart, Program Officer, provided a history of the printing press and newspapers from 19th century Upper Canada. Participants explored the printing press program and went home with a copy of Mackenzie’s newspaper, with their name on it, which they typeset themselves.

---

Graduate Student Project Program

http://thenhier.ca/en/content/graduate-student-project-program-reports

- In Griffintown, documentary and website (Scott MacLeod, Concordia University)
- Presentations at Association of Canadian Universities for Northern Studies Student Conference and Canadian Archaeological Association Annual Conference (Karen Church, University of Calgary)
- Arts Based Inquiry Project (Cynthia Wallace-Casey, University of New Brunswick)
- Presentation at 2013 Alaska Native Studies Conference (Heather McGregor, University of British Columbia)
- Parlons Histoire (Marie-Hélène Brunet, Université de Montréal)
- Becoming Multicultural website project (Lee Blanding, University of Victoria)

---

Small Projects Grants

http://thenhier.ca/en/content/small-project-grants-reports

- Understanding the Residential School System: Intergenerational Dialogue (Alberta)
- 2013 Annual Meeting of the Agricultural History Society (Alberta)
- Herstories Café 2012 (Ontario)
- War of 1812 Poetry and Art Exhibit (Manitoba)
- Development of Educational Materials to Facilitate Learning in the Context of School Programming at the Musée acadien, Université de Moncton (New Brunswick)
- National Capital History Symposium (Ontario)
- Education Associates of the Laurier Centre for Military Strategic and Disarmament Studies First Annual Teachers’ Conference 2013 (New Brunswick)
- “Pasts Uncovered”: History and Historians in Museums (Québec)

---

Publication Award

Congratulations to Dr. Maria Neagu for her dissertation completed at the Université Laval in 2011, Conquérir la nation au passé. Mémoire et identité dans les manuels d’histoire moldaves, 1918-2006 (Evoking the Past of the Nation. Memory and Identity in Moldavian History Textbooks, 1918-2006). Jocelyn Létourneau, supervisor). In this well-written and extensively researched study, Dr. Neagu makes a convincing case for studying school textbooks and curriculum documents to better understand the ways in which these official curriculum materials use historical events and figures to shape identity and conceptions of ‘nation’ in the citizenry.
Visiting Doctoral Student Program

THEN/HiER awarded grants to four doctoral students to participate in this program in 2012, which allowed them to interact on a daily basis with students and faculty members at a university other than their own.

- Vincent Boutonnet, Université de Montréal, observed and analyzed teaching practices related to the use of instructional resources in history education. He worked with Dr. Penney Clark at the Department of Curriculum and Pedagogy, University of British Columbia.
- Sean Carleton, Trent University, looked at ways to generate new approaches to teaching and learning about British Columbia’s history of education in order to create innovative possibilities for curricular and social change. He worked with Dr. Chris Minns at the Economic History Department, London School of Economics and Political Science, UK.
- Lindsay Gibson, University of British Columbia, enhanced his understanding and conceptualization of historical thinking through this visit, which helped him further develop his proposed dissertation research that will assess students’ and teachers’ ethical judgments. He worked with Dr. Per Eliasson at the Department of Science, Environment, and Society, Malmö University, Sweden.
- Eric Poitras, McGill University, expanded the design of the MetaHistoReasoning Tool by building augmented reality applications as part of the existing interface. He worked with Dr. Kevin Kee at the Department of History, Brock University.

Vincent Boutonnet - Final Report

The Uses and Functions of Textbooks in Secondary History Classes

This short but productive stay began with a reading list suggested by Dr. Clark on the functions of textbooks and research on these historical artifacts. While my dissertation is principally on how teachers use textbooks, I expanded my conceptual framework with specific interesting and relevant concepts through these readings.

Textbooks are everyday tools for teachers who use them for important purposes but in diverse ways; however they can also be considered cultural, social, and historical objects. As well as being historical artifacts, textbooks also reflect the sociocultural context of the period in which they were produced and used. For this reason, research focused primarily on content is especially meaningful since textbooks are the carriers of values and norms that change over time.
Research Snapshots 2012/13

Assessing Historical Thinking
Peter Seixas, University of British Columbia
(April 2012)

Thinking and Feeling School through its Historical Contours: Pedagogy, Métis Places and Spaces, and Teachers in Learning
Jonathan Anuik, University of Alberta (May 2012)

Twenty Questions… And the Historical Roots of Contemporary Canada
Michael Dawson, St. Thomas University (June 2012)

The Politics of History Education: from the Battle of the Boyne to Chairman Mao
Tony Taylor, Monash University (July 2012)

Having Fun With History
Mills Kelly, George Mason University
(August 2012)

Finding My NICHE
Alan MacEachern, University of Western Ontario
(September 2012)

History Education and National Identities
Mario Carretero, Universidad Autónoma de Madrid
(October 2012)

History Education in the Name of Democracy
Kristina Llewellyn, University of Waterloo
(November 2012)

My Scholarly Passions
Margaret Conrad, University of New Brunswick
(December 2012)

Teaching and Learning in the Eighteenth-Century Northeast
Thomas Peace, Dartmouth College (January 2013)

Exploring the History of Educational Policies and Their Impacts
Helen Raptis, University of Victoria (February 2013)

Researching Antiracism, Researching History
Timothy Stanley, University of Ottawa (March 2013)

Web Highlights

What’s new on the THEN/HiER website?
http://thenhier.ca/

THEN/HiER’s blog pages have really taken off in the past year with some new series:

English blog
• Diary of a History TA
• Incorporating Multiple Perspectives in the History Class
• Teachable Moments
• Difficult Histories
• Using Performance to Teach History

French blog
• Patrimoine architectural : préserver quoi et pourquoi?
• Mille mots valent bien une image!

We currently have over 600 members on our website.

What’s new on Facebook?
https://www.facebook.com/pages/The-History-Education-NetworkHistoire-et-%C3%89ducation-en-R%C3%A9seau-THENHiER/349479900193

We initiated an Object of the Month series on our Facebook page where a photo is posted and visitors guess what it is. There are also timely news items, events, and links to blog posts on our website.

New Videos in 2012/13
http://thenhier.ca/en/content/videos

• Library and Archives Canada, Ten Years After the Merger
Julienne Molineux’s presentation at UBC in 2012 discussing her research on the National Library/National Archives merger.

• Museums as Sites of Historical Consciousness Unconference
The presentations at THEN/HiER’s 2012 Annual Symposium at the Museum of Vancouver, BC.

• THEN/HiER American Educational Research Association (AERA) Panel 2012
The panel “Race and Nation in Canadian History Education” with Penney Clark, Marc-André Éthier, Peter Seixas, and James Miles at the AERA conference in Vancouver, BC.

Penney Clark at a reception hosted by THEN/HiER following the panel presentation at the AERA Conference.
Outgoing Anglophone Committee Co-chair - June 2012

The Anglophone Graduate Student Committee congratulated Samantha Cutrara on her new position as Senior Coordinator of Education and Exhibits at the Archives of Ontario. This meant that she resigned as co-chair of the committee. We wish her well in her new career!

Facebook and Blog - September 2012

The first submission to our Object of the Month was posted on Facebook – we are always looking for contributions of fave objects. Also, we added a new blog series, Diary of a History TA, where history teaching assistants reflect on their teaching practice, share resources and swap tutorial teaching tips. And new posts were added to the Read-Review-Respond blog series on New Possibilities for the Past, edited by Penney Clark.

New Anglophone Committee Chair - December 2012

Since I have graduated with my PhD, I have stepped down as the Anglophone Graduate Student Committee Coordinator. I want to thank everyone on the committee, as well as the THEN/HiER Executive Board, for all their support. It has been a privilege to be part of such a professional and vibrant organization. Filling my shoes is Kate Zankowicz, who I know will do an exceptional job. Kate orchestrated the blog for most of 2012, and as such, is well known in the history education community across the country. We wish her all the best.

Parlons Histoire - March 2013

The first Parlons Histoire took place at the Université de Montréal on March 13. This project, inspired by the Let’s Talk History initiatives in English-language universities, allowed future elementary teachers to meet with graduate students in history. Through their enthusiasm and epistemological inquiry, these future teachers will be better able to understand historical thinking and its role in the classroom. Some of the students’ reflections are available on our blog Enseigner l’histoire.

Graduate Student Committees

http://thenhier.ca/en/content/graduate-student-committee
http://thenhier.ca/fr/content/le-comité-des-étudiants-des-cycles-supérieurs

THEN/HiER Annual Regional Conference in History Education, History, and Emotion: Between Collective Memory and Historical Thinking, Québec City, October 25, 2012.

http://thenhier.ca/fr/content/une-journée-remplie-d’histoire-et-d’émotions

At the Annual Regional Conference organized by the Francophone Graduate Student Committee, participants were enthusiastic and the sessions were stimulating. The morning included a talk by Carla Peck (University of Alberta) where she explained the concept of historical empathy. This was followed by two teachers, Marc-André Lauzon and Chantal Rivard (also committee members), who described how they integrate historical empathy in their history classes. The morning concluded with Danny Robertson (Huron-Wendat Museum) and Alain Fréchette (Stewart Museum) who spoke about historical empathy in museums, which we had a chance to see in action in the afternoon at the Plains of Abraham with Stéphane Roy (National Battlefields Commission). The evening began with a visit to the Bibliothèque et Archives nationales du Québec at the Université Laval with Rénald Lessard, followed by a reception jointly sponsored by THEN/HiER and the International Didactics Symposium which was held at the Université Laval October 25 to 28. The following committee members gave presentations at this conference:

• Vincent Boutonnet (Université de Montréal), “Les manuels d’histoire au secondaire : conceptions et usages des enseignants”
• Marie-Hélène Brunet (Université de Montréal), “Le programme québécois d’histoire et éducation à la citoyenneté au secondaire : quelques perspectives de recherches”
• Cynthia Wallace-Casey (University of New Brunswick), “Deepening Historical Consciousness Through Museum Fieldwork: Implications for Community-based History Education”
• Rose Fine-Meyer (University of Toronto), “Exploring History Outside the Classroom: Collaborative Place-based Projects that Incorporate Web-based Learning”

Samantha Cutrara
Outgoing Anglophone Committee Co-chair - June 2012

Rose Fine-Meyer
Kate Zankowicz
Marie-Hélène Brunet

Object of the Month
January 2013

Facebook and Blog - September 2012

The first submission to our Object of the Month was posted on Facebook – we are always looking for contributions of fave objects. Also, we added a new blog series, Diary of a History TA, where history teaching assistants reflect on their teaching practice, share resources and swap tutorial teaching tips. And new posts were added to the Read-Review-Respond blog series on New Possibilities for the Past, edited by Penney Clark.

New Anglophone Committee Chair - December 2012

Since I have graduated with my PhD, I have stepped down as the Anglophone Graduate Student Committee Coordinator. I want to thank everyone on the committee, as well as the THEN/HiER Executive Board, for all their support. It has been a privilege to be part of such a professional and vibrant organization. Filling my shoes is Kate Zankowicz, who I know will do an exceptional job. Kate orchestrated the blog for most of 2012, and as such, is well known in the history education community across the country. We wish her all the best.

Parlons Histoire - March 2013

The first Parlons Histoire took place at the Université de Montréal on March 13. This project, inspired by the Let’s Talk History initiatives in English-language universities, allowed future elementary teachers to meet with graduate students in history. Through their enthusiasm and epistemological inquiry, these future teachers will be better able to understand historical thinking and its role in the classroom. Some of the students’ reflections are available on our blog Enseigner l’histoire.
THEN HiER grant.

was funded through a bicentennial celebrations politics and memory of the round table session on the of the war. An evening and neglected legacies and heritage initiatives, the war, local tourism public in sessions on new teaching tools focussed on conference included historians, educators and the general Congress of the Humanities and Social Sciences. The It Anyway? conference titled CHA’s Active History Committee held a public mini-Summer Institute at the University of Toronto’s Ontario Project. The Historical Thinking Project also held its third collaboration, and were involved in strategic planning country. Participants were able to identify areas for future and academics working with historical thinking across the Amsterdam University, as well as panelists of teachers Peter Seixas of CSHC at UBC, and Arie Wilschut of in Toronto. Participants enjoyed keynote addresses from Thinking Project Annual General Meeting and Conference area of history education met for the fourth Historical From January 15 to 17, 2013 seventy-five leaders in the http://www.cshc.ubc.ca/ Centre for the Study of Historical Consciousness http://www.cshc.ubc.ca/ From January 15 to 17, 2013 seventy-five leaders in the area of history education met for the fourth Historical Thinking Project Annual General Meeting and Conference in Toronto. Participants enjoyed keynote addresses from Peter Seixas of CSCH at UBC, and Arie Wilschut of Amsterdam University, as well as panelists of teachers and academics working with historical thinking across the country. Participants were able to identify areas for future collaboration, and were involved in strategic planning for the next three-year phase of the Historical Thinking Project. The Historical Thinking Project also held its third Summer Institute at the University of Toronto’s Ontario Institute for Studies in Education (OISE/UT) in July 2012.

Canadian Historical Association (CHA) http://www.cha-shc.ca/ CHA’s Active History Committee held a public mini-conference titled The War of 1812: Whose War was It Anyway? on May 30, 2012 in Waterloo during the Congress of the Humanities and Social Sciences. The conference included historians, educators and the general public in sessions on new teaching tools focussed on the war, local tourism and heritage initiatives, and neglected legacies of the war. An evening round table session on the politics and memory of the bicentennial celebrations was funded through a THEN HiER grant.

The Canadian History of Education Association http://www.ache-chea.ca/ The CHEA conference took place from October 18 to 21 in Vancouver, with participants from Canada, Mexico, Brazil, Australia, New Zealand, the UK, and the US. The conference theme was History of Education and the Pursuit of Relevance. Innovative features of the conference included the “1000 Words in a Picture” forum and a panel session “Brokering Belonging or Contesting White Supremacy,” which was jointly sponsored by CHEA, the Chinese Canadian Historical Society of BC, the Chinese Canadian Stories project, and the UBC Faculty of Education. This evening panel was open to the public.

Manitoba Social Sciences Teachers’ Association http://www.mssta.mb.ca/ From November 1 to 3, 2012, the University of Winnipeg Collegiate, in partnership with the Manitoba Social Sciences Teachers’ Association and Canada’s History, held a TeachMEET on the War of 1812 using student work that incorporates historical thinking concepts through various forms of art. The project involved a month-long research study with history students, a TeachMEET evening where Manitoba teachers came together to learn about the project and share ideas, and finally an evening exhibition of the students’ art projects.

Museum of Vancouver (MOV) http://www.museumofvancouver.ca/ Viviane Gosselin, THEN HiER Executive Board Member, and Curator of Contemporary Issues at MOV, was pleased to announce the opening of an exhibition she curated, Sex Talk in the City, which opened February 14 and runs to September 2, 2013. The exhibition, co-produced by MOV and Options for Sexual Health, and partially funded by THEN HiER, is described as "a multifaceted exhibition that explores the evolution of ‘sex talk’ in Vancouver [and] addresses issues of sexual expression, diversity, politics, and education.” An historical thinking pedagogy informs the exhibition environment where design and text expose elements of the construction of the historical narrative and explicitly invite visitors to take a more active role as interpreters.

New THEN HiER Partners in 2012/13 We welcomed two new partners this past year:

British Columbia Heritage Fairs Society http://www.bcheritagefairs.ca/

Canadian History of Education Association (CHEA) http://www.ache-chea.ca/

We look forward to working with these organizations in the coming years to improve the teaching and learning of history in Canada in both official languages.

News from Our Partners

The Critical Thinking Consortium (TC²) http://www.tc2.ca/ THEN HiER offered 25 free one-year subscriptions to The Critical Thinking Consortium (TC²) Source Docs, an online resource developed in part with funding from THEN HiER, that contains collections of source documents organized around a wide range of historical and contemporary topics. Participants were to state, in ten words or less, why they should receive a free subscription. A few of the winning entries were:

• I live eat breathe S.S. so my diet needs TC².
• Broke new teacher, Believes TC² can make worldless bleaker!
• Conscientious pedagogue seeks juicy resources to feed voracious learning compulsions.
• New resources + critical thinking = engaged students.
• Fly-in school, 60 aboriginal students, no library, limited resources.

Read all the winning entries at http://thenhier.ca/en/content/contest-win-one-year-subscription-tc2-source-docs.

Centre for the Study of Historical Consciousness http://www.cshc.ubc.ca/ From January 15 to 17, 2013 seventy-five leaders in the area of history education met for the fourth Historical Thinking Project Annual General Meeting and Conference in Toronto. Participants enjoyed keynote addresses from Peter Seixas of CSCH at UBC, and Arie Wilschut of Amsterdam University, as well as panelists of teachers and academics working with historical thinking across the country. Participants were able to identify areas for future collaboration, and were involved in strategic planning for the next three-year phase of the Historical Thinking Project. The Historical Thinking Project also held its third Summer Institute at the University of Toronto’s Ontario Institute for Studies in Education (OISE/UT) in July 2012.

Canadian Historical Association (CHA) http://www.cha-shc.ca/ CHA’s Active History Committee held a public mini-conference titled The War of 1812: Whose War was It Anyway? on May 30, 2012 in Waterloo during the Congress of the Humanities and Social Sciences. The conference included historians, educators and the general public in sessions on new teaching tools focussed on the war, local tourism and heritage initiatives, and neglected legacies of the war. An evening round table session on the politics and memory of the bicentennial celebrations was funded through a THEN HiER grant.